SCOTT COUNTY MAN REJECTS CHARGES

John Bloettle Says He Did Not Make Disloyal Remarks
Against Gov.

The name of the man in Kelo, Scott county, against whom charges of disloyalty have been preferred is John Bloettle, Sheriff Sneed announced yesterday. Upon receiving the information that a man in Kelo had made some remarks about the government, the sheriff began to investigate and learned that he had received the wrong name, which was given to him as John Liddle.

He added that he did not know whether an investigation had been ordered by anyone, but when told that the United States officials had been informed of some disloyal remarks alleged to have been made by him in a store in Farnfeld two weeks ago, he replied that it was absolutely unfounded. He said he was positive that he never made any assertions against the government.

Mr. Bloettle, a Civil War veteran is well known in Scott county. At the outbreak of the war he volunteered his services as one of the first of his county and remained in the army during the war. He was stationed for some time at Union, Mo. and was among the guards who accompanied General Price.

The convention which will be held at the Normal auditorium is expected to bring from 500 to 1,000 delegates, and applicants from all cities and towns of Southeast Missouri to the Cape.

The bible donated to the Supreme Council of the order by its founder Justus H. Rathbourn, shortly after the Civil War will be brought to the Cape by Supreme Keeper of Seals Mr. Wheaton of Minneapolis, and in its presence the first degree will be conferred upon the applicants.

Paul P. Hinchey of De Soto, a brother of W. W. Hinchey of this city, and Grand Prelate of the State of the Knights of Pythias, has arrived in the city to make the preliminary arrangements for the initiation of the applicants.

Mr. Kennedy's address will be followed by a week's campaign to enroll in the food saving army every man, woman and child of school age in Cape Girardeau county. Every man, woman and child of the county should pledge himself to save food; every family in Cape Girardeau county should pledge themselves as a family to save food.

In the years to come, if any man, woman or child in this county shall fail to have his name on this roll of honor, which will be preserved, he will be ashamed to let it be known. In the years to come, if any family in Cape Girardeau county shall have failed to enroll themselves on this roll of honor, it will be to their lasting disgrace as a family.

Our country faces a great crisis. She calls upon every patriotic citizen to come to her help. Let no man, no woman, no child of responsible age and no family in Cape Girardeau county fail his country at this hour. The honor of our country is at stake, the lives of our men at the front are at stake; the salvation of our country and our friends are at stake.

Every Family is Urged to Aid in the Food Campaign

By W. S. Dearmont, Chairman of the United States Food Administration for Cape Girardeau County.

American soldiers are going to the front the people are responding nobly to the call of the government in the Liberty Loan will you do your part further by saving the food that our armies and our allies must have?

More than three hundred Cape Girardeau county boys are in France, or soon to be there; men and women, many of the poor men and women, have lent their money to the government in the Liberty Loan; only our young men can go to the trenches; only a part of our people can make Liberty Loans; but the men, women and children of the United States can all enlist in the campaign to save food.

Three things are absolutely essential to the winning of the war, brave men and well trained soldiers; arms, munitions and other equipment necessary for the use and the care of our soldiers; and food for our soldiers and our Allies. A failure in any one of these essentials will be fatal.

Our brave soldiers will do their part; the government with the assistance of thousands of patriotic citizens will provide arms, munitions, equipment of every kind and will transport them to the front; will all the men, women and children, a hundred million strong, save the food?

Food in four forms is needed for shipment to Europe; wheat, meat, fats and sugars. These represent the most concentrated form of food and the foods most unable and most needed by our soldiers and our allies. Our people are called upon to save food in these forms as much as possible.

sible and to substitute for them food in other forms that cannot well be shipped to Europe.

Remember that our people are not called upon to do without food necessary for their complete nourishment. They are called upon to eat, as much as possible, those forms of food that are too bulky to ship to Europe; and they are urged to waste nothing, especially wheat, meat, fats and sugars.

The government cannot afford to ship potatoes to Europe because 80 per cent of potatoes are water. Shipping space cannot be spared to ship to Europe foods that yield only 20 per cent of their bulk in useful food. Corn cannot be used by our soldiers as food to any extent, because cornbread will not keep in good condition to eat long after cooking. Furthermore, corn is more liable to spoil in shipment than wheat. In like manner it will be seen that vegetables and other forms of food cannot be shipped to Europe to good advantage.

The immediate call is upon our people to save enough wheat to be able to send four hundred million bushels to Europe within the next year; to save one-third of the sugar now used by our people; to save meat and fats as much as possible.

A great educational food campaign will begin on Sunday, October 28, 1917 to show the people what to save and how to save food. Hon. Bruce Kennedy of Washington, D. C., member of the National Council of Defense, will open the campaign in an address delivered at Jackson, Mo., Sunday, October 28, 1917 at 3 p. m. and another address to be delivered at Cape Girardeau at 8 p. m. on the
